Dear Jeremy,

We recently purchased one of your Filtroil portable filtration carts, the Focus 800. This cart is being used on a high-pressure power unit for servo hydraulic testing. The unit was primarily purchased to remove water from our oil system. We were not using any kind of by-pass filtration prior to the cart and have been impressed with the proficiency of the system. The cart is getting water out of the oil and our system is back on-line.

The unit is easy to use, effective and professionally built. When I was looking to purchase a filtration cart the other units I researched were much cheaper looking, they looked as though they were built in someone's garage. The Filtroil portable carts, however, are noticeably different. I was impressed with the design.

I have been so impressed with the efficiency of the portable unit that we are looking to put dedicated units on our remaining machines. We believe that the units will easily maintain oil cleanliness to an extent that it will insure a long service life for our pumps and servo valves.

Sincerely,

Steve Yokash
